INTRODUCTION

In an article in Chappell and Wilson's The Australian Criminal Justice System, A.G. Hess has pointed to the need for the establishment in Australia of a national clearinghouse, to function as a 'centralised information unit which serves as a source of data and/or information to research workers and practitioners in the field'.

The Australian Institute of Criminology has established such a clearinghouse and a great deal of information concerning Australian and Australian-related publications, completed and on-going research is being collected. This information is being computerised to enable an efficient criminological information retrieval system to be developed.

In the belief that duplication of research is undesirable, particularly in a field where manpower and funds are scarce, the Institute has decided to use this Information Bulletin as a means of disseminating information concerning Australian or Australian-related publications and research of criminological significance. Also included is information supplied by correspondents from each Australian State and the Northern Territory as to criminological seminars and meetings which take place in their respective jurisdictions. However, information from any source regarding matter to be included in the Information Bulletin would be welcomed and should be sent to the Editorial Committee.

The Information Bulletin is published quarterly and readers who would like a statement of their current or recently completed research to appear in the Information Bulletin are requested to detach from this issue the appropriate page, to complete it and return it to the address below.

Readers will appreciate that the clearinghouse information contained in the Information Bulletin is based largely on direct information supplied by individuals and departments and can only be as accurate and reliable as its source.

The Australian Institute of Criminology appreciates the response which it has already received in establishing the clearinghouse and it is hoped that the service it provides will assist the promotion of Australian research into criminological problems which urgently require attention.

Commencement and anticipated completion: May 1976 to 1977

Funding: Alcoholic and Drug Addicts Treatment Board

314 DRUG ABUSE

- Topic: Drugs, Alcohol and the Law
- Auspices: The Law Foundation of New South Wales
- Researcher: Roman Tomasic

- Commencement and anticipated completion: August 1976 to January 1977

The first half of the study examines existing Australian police, court, medical, prison and community responses to alcoholics and drug users. Existing Australian statistical and other data are brought together. The second part of the study begins with an analysis of the recent national inquiries in England, Canada, the United States and Australia and goes on to evaluate the success of alternative community responses to alcoholism and drug addiction such as diversion. This part of the study concludes with an examination of new legislation in regard to marijuana that has been enacted in the United States in recent years and concludes with a number of recommendations concerning the reform of marijuana and other drug laws in Australia.

The most significant aspect of the work is that it will attempt to integrate students who are delinquent into the educational experiences provided by teachers for all students rather than deal with them in a special program. Appropriately matched control schools will be used and an evaluation conducted.

319 PROBATION OFFICERS

Topic: Volunteers in Social Agencies – An Examination of the Honorary Probation Officer Scheme

Auspices: College of Advanced Education; Social Work Department

Researcher: Malcolm Cunningham

Commencement and anticipated completion: Completion 30 November 1976

Funding: Attorney-General's Department

Outline: Following an historical outline of volunteer involvement in Australia, a framework is suggested on how volunteers could be integrated into a welfare setting. Problems surrounding the 'professional' 'volunteer' relationship are viewed in a time perspective as well as being discussed within a contemporary setting.

An evaluation of the Honorary Probation Scheme in Tasmania serves to focus on issues raised in the Introductory Section.

The study concentrates specifically on the following: The rationale for the establishment of the scheme, uniqueness of a volunteers contribution, training, expectations of honoraries and stipendiary officers, motives for volunteering, appropriate supportive services for honoraries, administration of the scheme and pattern of utilisation.

- Topic: Bail and Pre-Trial Release
- Auspices: The Law Foundation of New South Wales
- Researcher: Roman Tomasic
- Address for communication: The Law Foundation of New South Wales, PO Box 1027, North Sydney. NSW. 2060.
- Funding: The Law Foundation of New South Wales
- Outline: This study is part of a longer study on diversion of offenders from the criminal justice system, and sought to bring together much of the recent literature in the field of bail and pre-trial release. A critical analysis of recent developments in the United States, Canada, the United Kingdom, New Guinea and Australia is undertaken. In particular, the study contains an examination of such schemes as release on recognizance, citation release and other bail reforms. A number of changes to the present bail system are proposed though it is suggested that these will only be effective where these reforms are accompanied by wider reforms and attitude changes in the criminal justice system.

Publication or where otherwise available: Bail and Pre-Trial Release available from the Law Foundation of New South Wales early in December 1976.

328 DRUNK DRIVING

Topic: Deterrence and the Drinking Driver

Auspices: The Law Foundation of New South Wales

Researcher: Roman Tomasic

Address for communication: The Law Foundation of New South Wales, PO Box 1027, North Sydney. NSW. 2060.

Funding: The Law Foundation of New South Wales

Outline: This study was originally prepared whilst the author was a consultant to the Australian Law Reform Commission (See ALRC 4). The paper has been updated and expanded and includes a wide-ranging critique of the inadequacies of present responses to drink-driving behaviour, both in Australia and overseas, particularly in Europe. It was found that many present police and court responses to problem-driving are failing to come to terms with the social meanings associated with such behaviour. The discriminatory aspects of existing policies are highlighted and a plan for greater community involvement with drink-driving problems is proposed.

Publication or where otherwise available: Deterrence and the Drinking Driver available from the Law Foundation of New South Wales at the end of December 1976.

The period covered is from the early 1840s until New Zealand's most recent statute – The Children and Young Persons Act, 1974.

- Outline: The Solicitor General of Canada has circulated a set of proposals for reform of the law relating to juvenile delinquency which proposes a radical departure from a legislative model in operation in that country for the last 68 years. This study examines the new proposals tracing their parallel in English, Scottish and United States legislative models.
- Publication or where otherwise available: Criminal Law Review (in press)

331 LEGAL PROFESSION

- Topic: Law, Lawyers and the Community
A study of public attitudes and experiences with law and lawyers
- Auspices: The Law Foundation of New South Wales
- Researcher: Roman Tomasic
- Address for communication: The Law Foundation of New South Wales, PO Box 1027, North Sydney. NSW. 2060.
- Funding: The Law Foundation of New South Wales
- Outline: This study reports some findings concerning community satisfaction with the legal system. The study is based on a survey of 1,800 people in New South Wales late in 1975 and provides up-to-date information concerning experiences and attitudes to the police, courts and the legal profession. Discrimination in the legal system is examined and some proposals for law reform are reported. The study found that the community was frightened by and dissatisfied with the legal system though there was considerable reluctance to support major changes in the legal system.
- Publication or where otherwise available: Law, Lawyers and the Community now available from The Law Foundation of New South Wales — $6.00.

332 VANDALISM

333 VIOLENCE

Topic: Violence: Occurrence and Reporting
Auspices: Institute of Mental Health Research and Post-Graduate Training
Researchers: Jerzy Krupinski, M.D., Docent, F.A.C.M.A., M.A.N.Z.C.P., (Corr.)
 Roma Emmerson, Curator, Charles Brothers Mental Health Museum
Funding: Internal
Outline: A study has been carried out to determine whether there has been a real increase in violent crime in Victoria or whether the public has been affected by the greater prominence given to violence in the mass media. The rates of violent crime, based on 'persons taken into custody or proceeded against' were highest in the seventies and eighties of the 19th century. They, then, showed a steady decline until the mid thirties of the 20th century. Since the fifties, there had been an increase but, with the exception of assault with grievous bodily harm, they are still much lower than they were 100 years ago. The content analysis of the four main dailies (The Age, The Argus, The Herald and The Sun) has shown an increasing coverage of violent crime both in the number, and in the size, of articles devoted to it. The authors discuss the reasons for and possible effects of this phenomenon.
Publication or where otherwise available: Presented for publication to the Australian and New Zealand Journal of Criminology.

NOTICES

To enable a freer exchange of information between persons in the criminal justice system and related areas, the Editorial Committee has decided to make space available to the Bulletin's readers. It is contemplated that this space will be used for such things as notices of meetings, requests of other readers for information and requests for copies of books, journals and other materials. This service will be free. Notices which would be more appropriately listed in the commercial press will thus not be accepted. We trust that readers will find this service useful.

The following bibliographies have been prepared by members of the Institute's Research Division –

Selected Bibliography of Stress for Police

Selected Bibliography of Job Satisfaction, Absence, and Alienation for Police

Selected Bibliography of Robbery

Copies are available free on request. These bibliographies are periodically updated. Persons wishing to be placed on a permanent order basis to receive each update should advise the Librarian.

As notified previously, a sexual assaults bibliography is in the course of preparation. Copies of a part-completed draft of the bibliography are available to interested persons. A two dollar postage charge is unfortunately necessary due to the size of the draft.
