INTRODUCTION

The Australian Institute of Criminology has established a national clearinghouse of criminological information to act as a central agency for the collection, storage, exchange and dissemination of bibliographical data on Australian and Australian-related criminological material.

This information is stored on computer and forms the data base of CINCH (Computerised Information from National Criminological Holdings), the Institute's computerised bibliographic service which provides rapid and comprehensive retrospective searches.

The Information Bulletin of Australian Criminology is published quarterly and is an integral part of this system, publishing in its 'Recent Publications' and 'Current and Recently Completed Research' sections all the new material which continuously updates the CINCH data base. It also contains information regarding past and forthcoming seminars in Australia, bibliographical activities of the J.V. Barry Memorial Library and generally aims to encourage a greater interchange of information between all persons interested in Australian criminology.

The success of the Information Bulletin depends to a large degree on material contributed to it by its readers, and persons who would like a statement of their research to appear or wish to publicise conferences or seminars are invited to complete the appropriate forms supplied with each issue and return them to the address below.

Readers will appreciate that the information contained in the Information Bulletin can only be as accurate and reliable as its source.

The Australian Institute of Criminology hopes that the services provided by CINCH and this Information Bulletin prove valuable to those interested in criminology and looks forward to the continued interest and assistance of its readers.

CURRENT RESEARCH

366 CRIMINAL STATISTICS

Topic:	Patterns and Trends of Crime in Australia 1900-1976
Auspices:	Australian Institute of Criminology
Researcher:	Dr Satyanshu Mukherjee
Address:	P.O. Box 28, Woden. A.C.T. 2606
Duration of research:	June 1977 – December 1979
Funding:	Australian Institute of Criminology
Outline:	The Australian Institute of Criminology has embarked into a major study on Patterns and Trends of Crime in Australia, 1900-1976. The study covers the whole of Australia, including all the six States, the Northern Territory and the Australian Capital Territory. Utilizing the three sets of criminal justice statistics, e.g. police, courts and prisons, the research plans to examine the relationships between crime data and certain selected socio-economic data. Among other things, the research will examine in detail the relationship between crime, urbanisation and the national economy.

The variables being used in assessing the patterns and trends of crime include the following:

- i) Criminal Justice
  - Police – number of crimes becoming known/reported, crimes cleared, police strength and expenditure.
  - Magistrates' Courts – number of charges, convictions, dismissals, etc., number of sentences of imprisonment imposed.
  - Higher Courts – number of persons/distinct persons tried and convicted.
  - Changes in the law for selected crimes.
- ii) Demographic
  - Population, masculinity, heterogeneity, density of population, infant mortality, and marriage and divorce.
- iii) Socio-economic:
  - Proportion living in urban/rural areas, gross domestic product, unemployment, average income, productivity, motor vehicle registration and driving licences, and liquor consumption.

Crime data will be analysed in terms of total as well as by specific crime categories. In the analysis of the data, frequencies, rates, base rates, rate changes, cyclic patterns and trends will be examined with the help of appropriate statistical techniques.

367 LEGAL AID

Topic: Legal Aid in New South Wales
Auspices: The Law Foundation of New South Wales
Researcher: Peter Cashman
Address: Law Foundation of New South Wales, P.O. box 1027, North Sydney. N.S.W. 2060. Telephone: 922 7011
Duration of research: 1978/79
Funding: Law Foundation of New South Wales
Outline: The initial phase of the project will examine the impact of the expanded provision of legal aid in Courts of Petty Sessions in New South Wales with particular reference to

- i) the time between initial appearance and final disposition of cases;
- ii) the proportion of people pleading guilty;
- iii) the proportion of people released on bail;
- iv) the acquittal rate;
- v) sentences imposed, and
- vi) the rate of appeals.

In addition an information system is being developed to facilitate the recording, on an ongoing basis, of data relating to the characteristics of clients, the nature of problems being dealt with, and the outcome of legally-aided cases.

The second stage of the project will involve an evaluation of the legal aid scheme from the client's perspective.

368 POLICE – HISTORY – BIOGRAPHICAL INDEX

Topic: A biographical index of all men who served as commissioned officers (Sub-Inspector, Inspector and Superintendent) in Australian Colonial Police Forces ca. 1860-1914
Researcher: Andrew Gill
Address: 67 Weller Street, Goodwood. S.A. 5034
Duration of research: Indefinite
Outline: The index will contain information similar to that being compiled for the Western Australian Biographical Index. The major variation will be the inclusion of data on the career of those men who served as officers, such as: dates of promotions, demotions re-appointments etc.; stations served at; occupation after leaving the Police Force; and any notable incidents in which the individual took part. The information when complete will form the basis for a comparative study of the Police Officer Corps in the various Australian Colonial Police Forces.

382 ESCAPE

Topic: Interstate Comparisons of Prison Escape and Offence Rates, and the Comparative Costs of Imprisonment. (Occasional Paper No.1), April 1977

Auspices: Office of Research and Social Policy, Victorian Social Welfare Department

Researchers: M.K. Rook
M. Demetrious

Address: Social Welfare Department, 55 Swanston Street, Melbourne. Vic. 3000

Outline: The paper is divided into two parts. Part I addresses the problems associated with calculating a meaningful prison escape rate, presents Victorian data on trends in prison escapes and offences over the last decade and offers some explanations for these, and finally presents comparative data on a State by State basis for prison escape rates and prison offence rates, with particular attention being paid to the manner by which different States collect and use the statistics available to them. Part II presents comparative data on the costs of imprisonment within the different States using two methods of comparison — annual cost per prisoner and annual cost per head of State population. Statistics for this purpose are calculated on the basis of recurring prisons expenditure, prisons capital expenditure and revenue from prison industries. A number of adjustments are made to correct for differences between the accounting methods used in different States. The difficulty in obtaining truly comparable data is acknowledged.

383 LONG TERM PRISONERS

- Topic: Exploratory Study into the Needs of Long-Term Prisoners in Victoria. (Progress Report) 1977
- Auspices: Office of Research and Social Policy, Victorian Social Welfare Department
- Researchers: M. Demetrious
P. Fitton
- Address: Social Welfare Department, 55 Swanston Street, Melbourne. Vic. 3000
- Outline: This report examines some of the feasibility issues associated with the conduct of any study of long-term prisoners needs, based on the experience of the authors in conducting in depth interviews with 30 long-term prisoners at Ararat and Geelong prisons. The report begins with a brief examination of resources utilised in the study and the extent of cooperation and support encountered for the study from both prisoners and prison staff. It then spells out some of the constraints within the organisation and daily operation of a prison which have a bearing on the conduct of such a study, looks in some detail at the numerous and sometimes sensitive issues which arise within a face-to-face interview situation with a prisoner, indicates methods of resolving these, and discusses methods of effective data eliciting and recording. Implications for the use of trained interviewing teams are discussed and an impression of trends in the actual content of information obtained from the prisoners interviewed is given. The report closes by identifying some of the factors likely to affect prisoner perceptions and expressed needs in different types of prisons, and by stressing the various advantages to be gained by prison administrations in seeking to obtain such information from prisoners in the manner outlined by the authors.

384 PAROLE AND PROBATION

- Topic: Victorian and Interstate Trends in Probation and Parole Activity and Prison Mortality. (Occasional Paper No.2), March 1978
- Auspices: Office of Research and Social Policy, Victorian Social Welfare Department
- Researchers: M.K. Rook
M. Demetrious
- Address: Social Welfare Department, 55 Swanston Street, Melbourne. Vic. 3000
- Outline: This paper analyses trends in Victorian probation and parole activity for the ten year period 1967-68 to 1976-77 and compares probation and parole activity between the Australian States for 1976-77. The trends are examined in the context of changes which have occurred over the last decade in rates of imprisonment, as measured by both the number of convicted prisoners received and the daily average prison population. An inter-State comparison of prison mortality rates, based on the three-year period from 1974-75 to 1975 to 1976-77 is also made.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS

The Department of Corrections of Western Australia has supplied the Information Bulletin with a comprehensive list of research and other papers which have been produced by the Department. Because of the number of items involved, they are published here in a form slightly different from our usual Recently Completed Research format.
