Introduction

The Information Bulletin of Australian Criminology is published quarterly. It contains information regarding current and recently completed research, past and forthcoming seminars in Australia, and bibliographical activities of the J.V. Barry Memorial Library. It also generally aims to encourage a greater exchange of information between all persons interested in Australian criminology. Papers from published conferences and chapters in monographs will be indexed.

The success of the Information Bulletin depends to a large degree on material contributed to it by its readers, and persons who would like a statement of their research to appear or wish to publicise conferences or seminars are invited to complete the appropriate forms supplied with each issue and return them to the address below.

The Australian Institute of Criminology hopes that the services provided by this publication prove valuable to those interested in criminology and looks forward to the continued interest and assistance of its readers.

CINCH

Announcement

CINCH (Computerised Information from National Criminological Holdings) was established by the Australian Institute of Criminology in Canberra in 1976. Until now the database has only been available inhouse to Institute Staff.

CINCH is now available as a public access file on AUSINET. Initially the data will comprise of 1982-1985 journal articles and monographs. Material not indexed during the suspension of the Information Bulletin of Australian Criminology will be available online. Eventually the data stored on the CSIRONET computer will be converted to STAIRS format and the database will contain material from as early as the 1920's to the present, including indexed documents comprising books, book reviews, research reports, government documents, conferences, working papers, conference papers, theses, statistical publications, analytical chapters in books and journal articles. The CINCH database when it is fully mounted on AUSINET will contain criminological references from major Australian legal and criminological journals dating back to their first issue. For example the Australian Law Journal from v.1 1927/28- , Sydney Law Review v.1 1953- , Federal Law Review v.1 1964- , Australian and New Zealand Journal of Criminology v.1 1968- and so on. Only those items deemed to have criminological interest were selected, but there will be a tremendously rich source of historical and archival information readily available there.

The 'Recent Publications' section of the Information Bulletin of Australian Criminology will continue to be published. It will be the printed byproduct of the CINCH database and both will be updated quarterly.

A CINCH leaflet and a database use guide are available at no charge from:

530 THE CARE AND CONTROL OF THE CRIMINALLY INSANE IN NSW : 1840-1984

Topic: The Care and control of the criminally insane in NSW : 1840-1984
Auspices: Macarthur Institute of Higher Education
Researcher: Leanne Craze
Address: School of Community and Welfare Studies
Macarthur Institute of Higher Education,
P.O. Box 108,
Milperra, NSW 2214
Duration of Research: 2 years
Funding: Macarthur Institute of Higher Education
Outline: Total number of cases is approximately 900. The passage of each case was traced through the judicial, penal and health systems. Data collected was divided into the following phases: antecedents; upon commission of offence and arrest; before trial; during trial and after trial. Data collected included: age, sex and occupation, level of education, employment status, marital status, number of dependents, previous convictions, previous mental illness, previous institutionalisation, level of English spoken, ethnicity, country of birth, alleged offence, outcome of legal proceedings, appeal and outcome, legal status, transfers between health and prison system, mental condition throughout detention, diagnoses, length of detention, changes in legal status throughout detention, support from family/friends throughout detention, outcome of detention and recidivism.
A sample of every fourth case was then selected to explore the following research problems: factors influencing the outcome of legal proceedings; factors influencing the mode of a person's detention; and factors influencing the decision to release.
A questionnaire was designed and is being applied in each case to: medical records, prison records, deposition and higher court hearings and media accounts of the offence, trial, detention and release.

533 DYNAMIC MODEL OF PRISON POPULATION

Topic: Dynamic model of prison population
Auspices: Research Division
N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services
Researcher: Geoff Gordon
Address: G.P.O. Box 31,
Sydney, NSW 2001
Duration of
Research: 6 months
Funding: N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services
Outline: Since the cessation of the A.B.S. series 'Prison Statistics, New South Wales', no reliable flow data are available for prisoners passing through N.S.W. gaols. Nevertheless there is a need for a dynamic model of prison populations for the purposes of forward planning. The proposed model will be based on sequential prison censuses. The prison population at an annual census is decomposed into offence groups, and within each offence group into cohorts by year of reception. Inputs to the system will be based on demographic projections of the general population, while census data will provide estimates of cohort survival in prison. The approach is similar to that of John Walker in the A.I.C. model of the Victorian prison population.

534 EVALUATION OF PRE-RELEASE PROGRAMMES IN N.S.W. GAOLS

Topic: Evaluation of pre-release programs in N.S.W. gaols.
Auspices: Research and Statistics Division
N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services
Researcher: Angela Gorta
Address: G.P.O. Box 31,
Sydney, NSW 2001
Duration of
Research: Ongoing. Currently finalising report.
Funding: N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services
Outline: The Pre-release Programme is a course including modules on accommodation, money management, employment and social skills designed to help prepare prisoners for release into the community. Different formats of this course were piloted in three N.S.W. gaols in 1981 and five gaols in 1982.
The evaluation was based on measures of: programme attendance; prisoners' impressions of the programme; areas of the programme most readily recalled by prisoners; the extent to which prisoners recall their plans changing as a result of participating in the programme; and changes in responses to questions from before to after the programme.

535 EVALUATION OF A THERAPEUTIC COMMUNITY IN A GAOL

Topic: Evaluation of the Special Care Unit (S.C.U.) at the Malabar Complex of Prisons, Long Bay, N.S.W.
Auspices: N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services
Researchers: Don Porritt and Tina Monk
Address: Research and Statistics Division
G.P.O. Box 31,
Sydney, NSW 2001

Duration of

Research: 5 months

Funding: N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services

Outline: The S.C.U. was set up 4 years ago as a 'therapeutic community' to help certain inmates overcome emotional and/or behavioural problems, and to provide a training facility for prison staff.

Inmates are resident at the Unit for a period of up to 3 months during which time they participate in daily group therapy sessions. All Unit members are awarded points for the quality and quantity of their participation in these sessions and for their educational pursuits and general behaviour in the Unit.

At the time of entering the Unit, each inmate signs a contract outlining the behavioural goals he will work on during therapy and agreeing to certain community rules. The breach of certain of these rules and/or non-work in therapy results in dismissal from the Unit.

A senior psychologist oversees the Unit programme aided by a staff of seconded prison officers and trainee prison officers.

The current project aims to evaluate the effectiveness of the Unit in terms of its stated aims and objectives. The research will focus primarily on changes in the inmates' attitudes and behaviour as measured by certain psychological tests; as reported by the inmates themselves and as perceived by significant others. Reactions of staff to working in the Unit will also be assessed.

536 AN EXAMINATION OF THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN TRAINING AND EMPLOYMENT WHILE IN GAOL

Topic: An examination of the relationship between training and employment while in gaol.

Auspices: Research and Statistics Division
N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services

Researchers: Angela Gorta and David Harding

Address: G.P.O. Box 31
Sydney, NSW 2001

Duration of
Research: Ongoing. Data collection and analysis complete. Currently finalising report.

Funding: N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services.

Outline: An earlier study of parolees (Gorta, 1982) found that many parolees were unskilled on entering gaol, received minimal training and experience whilst in gaol, and thus on release remained unskilled. The earlier study had followed parolees who were released from gaol in 1974. This study sought to update the information from the earlier study by documenting the vocational training available to prisoners in N.S.W. gaols in 1983 and more specifically to examine the relationship between training and employment while in gaol.

537 PRISONER TRAINING AND POST-RELEASE EMPLOYMENT

Topic: Prisoner Training and Post-Release Employment

Auspices: Research and Statistics Division
N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services

Researchers: Helene Panaretos and Paul Wynn

Address: G.P.O. Box 31
Sydney, NSW 2001

Duration of Research: 9 months
 Funding: N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services
 Outline: The study is the second phase of a project looking at prisoner training. Phase One examined the relationship between training and employment in gaol. The present phase attempts to find jobs once released. It examines both pre and post-gaol education levels and the effect any prison training has had on these variables. The need for prison vocational guidance is also evaluated. Recommendations for training programme improvements will be discussed.

538 PROCESS EVALUATION OF NEW BATHURST GAOL MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

Topic: Process evaluation of new Bathurst Gaol Management Programme.

Auspices: Research and Statistics Division
 N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services

Researchers: Angela Gorta, Kathy McLennan, Don Porritt, Diana Simmons

Address: G.P.O. Box 31
 Sydney, NSW 2001

Duration of Research: Ongoing. February 1983-October 1985

Funding: N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services

Outline: Bathurst Gaol reopened at the end of 1982. The new gaol is designed to operate using a management plan which distinguishes it from other gaols in a number of ways including: being staffed by both male and female prison officers (other gaols in the state are staffed by officers of only one sex, the same sex as the prisoners the gaol holds); cell accommodation (prisoners at Bathurst are accommodated in smaller groups known as 'units' rather than the 'wing' structure of traditional gaols); participatory decision making (junior officers and even prisoners are encouraged to have a say in the running of the gaol) and team management (groups of officers working in similar types of duties are encouraged to meet together regularly).

A variety of interview and observation structures have already been conducted in this process evaluation.

Duration of Research: Ongoing. Since July 1984

Funding: N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services

Outline: Based on interviews with sentenced women prisoners in N.S.W. and record data. Three main themes will be discussed: trends in the prison population; women prisoners and their reported drug use prior to coming to gaol; and how women perceive their imprisonment.

540 RECIDIVISM OF N.S.W. PRISONERS

Topic: Recidivism of N.S.W. prisoners

Auspices: Research and Statistics Division
 N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services

Researcher: G. Gordon

Address: G.P.O. Box 31
 Sydney, NSW 2001

Duration of Research: Approximately 1 year

Funding: N.S.W. Department of Corrective Services

Outline: Samples from three groups of prisoners are considered: those released on parole; those released to remission and those released to licence (a special form of early release which for a period operated in N.S.W.).

The aim of the study is to determine reoffence rates and if possible identify factors related to these rates from those available on departmental and police records. Past recidivism studies have often used crude re-offence rates not properly related to the periods during which prisoners are at risk of reoffence.

This study will use sophisticated statistical methods originating in engineering failure, time research and successfully applied in epidemiological studies. These will allow estimates to be obtained of how recidivism rates vary with time after release and with characteristics of prisoners. It is intended that the study will develop computer programmes which will be used in other similar studies on a more routine basis.

542 A STUDY OF THE COMMUNITIES OF ROEBOURNE AND JIGALONG, WA

Topic: A study of the communities of Roebourne and Jigalong, WA
Researcher: Special Cabinet Committee on Aboriginal/Police and Community Relations, Western Australia
Grant: $20,800
Outline: The study will identify the major issues affecting the relationship between Aboriginals, Police and the community, and recommend the development of a positive working relationship to reduce the conflict and aggression between community members.

The researchers will also directly contribute to the prevention and correction of offensive behaviour and help the police and communities to overcome law and order problems.

The results of the study will provide a model to be utilised and adapted in other communities where Aboriginal/Police relations are problematic.

546 A STUDY OF THE IMPACT OF ALCOHOL ON THE TOWN OF TENNANT CREEK, NORTHERN TERRITORY

Topic: A study of the impact of alcohol on the town of Tennant Creek, Northern Territory

Auspices: Drug and Alcohol Bureau, N.T. Health Department

Research: Ms Maggie Brady

Address: C/- Bureau of the Northern Land Council
P.O. Box 3046
Darwin, NT 5794

Funding: Study funded by the N.T. Health Department

Outline: The research examined the type and number of alcohol outlets in the town and found that whereas Europeans had a wide range of venues to choose from, Aborigines were limited to one hotel, and were further constrained by the N.T. two kilometre law. The study showed that Aborigines and Europeans alike consumed alcohol to an extent that caused grave medical problems, and that among Europeans their alcohol intake was often associated with poor work performance and safety. However, a double standard emerged whereby the European sector of the population consistently focused attention upon subgroups as being 'the problem'. These subgroups include categories of European workers and Aborigines. Large numbers of Aborigines were detailed under protective custody legislation, however, it was found that many of these could be avoided by structural changes to the hotel at which they drank.

547 COMMUNITY CARE / COMMUNITY RESPONSIBILITY : COMMUNITY PARTICIPATION IN CRIMINAL JUSTICE ADMINISTRATION IN NEW ZEALAND

Topic: Community care / Community responsibility : Community participation in Criminal Justice in New Zealand.

Auspices: Australian Institute of Criminology

Researcher: Kayleen M. Hazlehurst

Outline:

1. The potential of community-based programs to offer avenues of judicial diversion, particularly for young offenders in the Maori community.
2. The concept of community-based penance and reform.
3. The establishment of new help-networks linking the administration of criminal justice, welfare agencies and the community for the purpose of crime prevention and rehabilitation.
4. The importance of reviving the 'community' so that neighbourhoods become less fertile ground for delinquency among the young and become instead supportive environments.
